PROJECT SUMMARY: The idea was discovered at a local education in-service by club members. These members brought the idea to the club who thought it was a great idea. We then researched book ideas with the public librarian to make sure we made the best choice. The public schools put together a letter of welcome to be included and the public librarian put together a list of age appropriate books for birth through young adult. Our club included a letter about the importance of reading and when a birth announcement is published in the local newspaper we send out a packet. (We send to children born within our local public school system.) The response has been very positive in our community.
